Special Continuing Education Presentation:

Stroke Recovery

Hosted By: Drake Center

Specialized Medical & Rehabilitative Care

Learning Objectives:

1. Identify factors associated with stroke recovery.
2. Discuss the importance of an interdisciplinary approach to stroke recovery for persons greater than six months post-stroke.
3. Discuss stroke recovery case studies.

Presented By: Brett Kissela, M.D.

Brett Kissela, M.D. is Co-Director of the Stroke Recovery Center at Drake as well as Associate Professor and Vice-Chair of Neurology at the University of Cincinnati Academic Health Center. He is a member of the Greater Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky Stroke Team.

Dr. Kissela's research has focused on stroke epidemiology, stroke outcomes, and stroke recovery. Within a large stroke epidemiology program that primarily studies racial disparities in stroke incidence and case fatality, he has a special interest in the impact of diabetes on stroke incidence and stroke outcomes, as well as the epidemiology of stroke outcomes. With regard to stroke outcomes, he has focused on how post-stroke medical and psychiatric comorbidities, as well as the white matter disease burden, affect stroke recovery and outcomes. Finally, he participates in a variety of stroke recovery projects, seeking to enhance post-stroke recovery via innovative techniques and devices.

He was the recipient of the AAN's Michael S. Pessin Stroke Leadership Prize in 2005, and was invited to participate in the NIH Clinical Center Grand Rounds Great Teachers Series in 2008. He was recognized by the Cincinnati Business Courier in the "40 Under 40" Class of 2007. He also serves as Residency Program Co-Director at the University of Cincinnati since 2001, has served as Chair of the AAN's Consortium of Neurology Program Directors, and has been appointed to the ACGME Neurology Residency Review Committee. He serves on a variety of other local and national committees related to stroke and neurologic medical education.
